Shiro Iuchi, Natalie Kuldell, 2007-03-06 In the early 1980s a few scientists started working on a Xenopus transcription factor TFIIIA They soon discovered a novel domain associated with zinc and named this domain zinc finger The number of proteins with similar zinc fingers grew quickly and these proteins are now called C2H2 Cys2His2 or classical zinc finger proteins To date about 24 000 C2H2 zinc finger proteins have been recognized Approximately 700 human genes or more than 2% of the genome have been estimated to encode C2H2 finger proteins From the beginning these proteins were thought to be numerous but no one could have predicted such a huge number Perhaps thousands of scientists are now working on C2H2 zinc finger proteins from various viewpoints This field is a good example of how a new science begins with the insight of a few scientists and how it develops by efforts of numerous independent scientists in contrast to a policy driven scientific project such as the Human Genome Project with goals clearly set at its inception and with work performed by a huge collaboration throughout the world As more zinc finger proteins were discovered several subfamilies such as C2C2 CCHC CCCH LIM RING TAZ and FYVE emerged increasing our understanding of zinc fingers The knowledge was overwhelming Moreover scientists began defining the term zinc finger differently and using various names for identical zinc fingers These complications may explain why no single comprehensive resource of zinc finger proteins was available before this publication

Necrotizing Enterocolitis David J. Hackam, 2021-03-14 This is the first textbook devoted entirely to understanding and treating necrotizing enterocolitis NEC one of the leading causes of death and disability in premature infants NEC continues to occur in neonatal units across the world and the overall mortality has remained stubbornly high since its first description decades ago Despite significant research into NEC and a greater understanding of its underlying causes there is no single source of information to which the care team can turn for guidance This book fills that important gap in clinical care In selecting the topics for this inaugural textbook three guiding principles have been followed First to include chapters that provide detailed information for the medical team the doctors and nurses the therapists and pharmacists the chaplains and the child life workers so that each team member can optimally recognize prevent and treat patients with this disease Second to ensure that chapters cover the depth and breadth of the latest clinical and scientific research into NEC each selected to identify specific preventative strategies or therapies for this disease Third and perhaps most importantly to focus not only on the child with NEC but also on the child's family in order to provide comprehensive information about a disease that families have barely heard about until the jarring day when their precious infant is affected by it This book therefore serves as a how to guide for the care of the infant with NEC summarises critical new research and offers guidelines for future key research areas addresses the complex and difficult issues surrounding care of the critically ill infant suffering from NEC Written for the entire health care team including paediatric surgeons neonatologists developmental paediatricians epidemiologists ethicists child life professionals therapists and specialist nurses each team member will find this book of value This book was written to demystify this cruel disease and to unlock its closely held secrets of pathogenesis diagnosis treatment and prevention
