Treatment Of A Eu Directive:

National Effects of the Implementation of EU Directives on Labour Migration from Third Countries Roger Blanpain, Frank Hendrickx, 2016-03-23 Guaranteeing third country national workers robust equal treatment with regard to working conditions and pay is a crucial condition for avoiding social dumping exploitation and other reasons for regime shopping within the EU. However, Member States are still reluctant to compromise control of their borders and their labour markets. The EU legislation adopted is as a result fragmented and full of solutions that give Member States an extensive margin of room for manoeuvre. In this book, six distinguished European labour law academics discuss how three EU directives on labour migration – the Single Permit Directive, the Blue Card Directive and the Directive on Seasonal Employment – interact with the labour migration systems of France, Germany, Italy, Poland and Sweden, five countries with very different characteristics and approaches to implementation. Concrete issues dealt with in each country include the following conditions for granting work permits, reasons for withdrawing a work permit, how long a migrant worker can stay, whether a migrant worker can bring his or her family, employment and labour rights of migrant workers, migrant workers' access to social rights, how a migrant worker may enforce rights, sanctions for violations of applicable provisions and potential for permanent status for a migrant worker. For each of these issues, the authors analyse to what extent national legislators have been ready to adapt their national systems in order to fulfill the aims of the EU directives. They also identify unintended or at least not explicit effects of the implementation process. The authors clearly reveal whether the ambitions of the EU when initiating this process can be detected in the implementation process and how implementation of the three directives have changed and could change national law on these issues. As the first in-depth analysis of how the intersection of migration and labour law and their impact on labour and employment relations play out in the EU context, this book brings important insights to the growing literature in this field. The analysis will be of particular interest to national legislators but is also sure to be warmly welcomed by academics and practitioners in fields related to labour and employment and migration. Research

Waste Management and the Environment VII C. A. Brebbia, G. Passerini, H. Itoh, 2014-05-12 The proceedings of the 7th International Conference on Waste Management and the Environment follows on from the success of previous meetings held in Cadiz 2002 Rhodes 2004 Malta 2006 Granada 2008 Tallin 2010 and the New Forest 2012 There is growing awareness of the detrimental effects of current waste disposal and a movement towards greater accountability for effective waste management Better practices and safer solutions are required This creates a need for more research on current disposal methods such as landfills incineration chemical and effluent treatment as well as recycling waste incineration clean technologies waste monitoring public and corporate awareness and general education Waste Management is one of the key problems of modern society due to the ever expanding volume and complexity of discarded domestic and industrial waste Unfortunately many of the policies adopted in the past were aimed at short term solutions without due regard to the long term implications on health and the environment leading in many cases to the need to take difficult and expensive remedial action The desired direction of waste management is towards sustainable strategies The approach which has emerged as the most sustainable strategy has been called 3Rs where reduction reuse and recycling in this order are seen as the best actions Recently recovery is added as the fourth action 4Rs applied in order to for example recover energy from waste that cannot be classified under the 3Rs This largely decreases the volume of the waste that needs final disposal Further steps are required towards improvement of current technologies increased collaboration between the public government and private sectors and increased involvement of all stakeholders Topics covered include Environmental impact Reduce reuse recycle and recovery 4Rs Cost and benefits of management options Waste incineration and gasification Energy from waste Industrial waste management Nuclear and hazardous waste Agricultural waste Wastewater eWaste Landfill optimization and mining Remote sensing Thermal treatment Emergent pollutants Environmental remediation Legislation Behavioural issues

The German Anti-Discrimination Law of 2006 - A Small Step? Janna Lüttmann, 2007-09 Seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject Politics International Politics Topic Public International Law and Human Rights grade A Ryerson University course Diversity and Equity in the Public Sector language English abstract The German Anti Discrimination Law of 2006 A small Step ABSTRACT German parliament has passed a General Equal Treatment Act in 2006 and the implementation ensued by controversial discussion was mainly settled on because of pressure from the European Court of Justice Generally the law is intended to largely circumvent or abolish discrimination in most areas of public life This paper is assessing the Act in the national and international mainly EU context as well as the main arguments of both proponents and opponents It finds that most reasons against the Act can be refuted by arguments brought forward by proponents In addition the functionality of the Act is discussed and some problems and backlashes are discovered while the law itself is found to reveal gaps in terms of the scope of the legislation as well as the characteristics of discrimination The Act is criticized as it mainly offers correctional measures against discrimination with hindsight while being less likely to avert discrimination in the first place The legislation is found to have potential to shift the common consciousness to acknowledging diversity as a motor for societal and economic progress and as it recognizes that discrimination is a systemic rather than an individual problem in Germany it might render as a building block to fight discrimination and exclusion However despite the fact that the German legislation is more concise than the EU guideline it is shown that the legal framework is only a first small step toward equal and fair treatment in Germany The paper argues that protection against discrimination is a structural principle of human rights beyond formal equality that cannot be secured by the Act alone but
