

Step-by-step guide to removing gloves

1. On removal of the first glove, be careful not to touch your skin with any part of the contaminated glove. To do this, using the external surface as a shield, hook the gloved fingers of one hand at the wrist of the other glove ...

- 2 ... and pull the glove down towards the fingers.

3. Once the first glove is removed, hold it in the gloved hand.

4. To remove the second glove and avoid contact with the contaminated glove, place fingers into the inside surface of the glove (close to wrist) and pull down over the fingers.

5. When both gloves are removed, touch only the surface close to the wrist.

6. Dispose of the gloves in the clinical waste bin—if gloves are heavily soiled remove and place gloves into the clinical waste bin separately.

7. Decontaminate your hands. This is imperative in order to reduce cross-contamination.
