The Tunnel The Underground Homeless Of New York City Architecture Of Despair:

The Tunnel Margaret Morton, 1995 One of the oldest surviving homeless communities in New York City has been hidden from public view in an underground train tunnel since the 1970s Residents dwell in continual darkness along the two and a half mile stretch which is penetrated only by shafts of light angling through air vents The residents who have been there longest live alongside the tracks in cinder block bunkers originally used by railroad personnel Other residents are hidden high above the tracks in recessed niches that are accessible only by climbing More recent tunnel dwellers have built freestanding structures in the dark alcoves of the tunnel or perched themselves on concrete ledges The Poetry of Everyday Life Steve Zeitlin, 2016-09-02 This is a book of encounters Part memoir part essay and partly a guide to maximizing your capacity for fulfillment and expression The Poetry of Everyday Life taps into the artistic side of what we often take for granted the stories we tell the people we love the metaphors used by scientists even our sex lives A folklorist writer and cultural activist Steve Zeitlin explores how poems serve us in daily life and how they are used in times of personal and national crisis In the first book to bring together the perspectives of folklore and creative writing Zeitlin explores meaning and experience covering topics ranging from poetry in the life cycle to the contemporary uses of ancient myths This convergence of poetry and folklore he suggests gives birth to something new a new way of seeing ourselves and a new way of being in the world Written with humor and insight the book introduces readers to the many eccentric and visionary characters Zeitlin has met in his career as a folklorist Covering topics from Ping Pong to cave paintings from family poetry nights to delectable dishes at his favorite ethnic restaurants The Poetry of Everyday Life will inspire readers to expand their consciousness of the beauty that resides in everyday things and to use creative expression to engage and animate that beauty toward living a more fulfilling awakened life full of laughter To live a creative life is the best way to engage with the beauty of the everyday Visit the author's website for The Poetry of Everyday Life at <http://citylore.org/the-poetry-of-everyday-life>

Reciprocal Landscapes Jane Hutton, 2019-09-06 How are the far away invisible landscapes where materials come from related to the highly visible urban landscapes where those same materials are installed Reciprocal Landscapes Stories of Material Movements traces five everyday landscape construction materials fertilizer stone steel trees and wood from seminal public landscapes in New York City back to where they came from Drawing from archival documents photographs and field trips the author brings these two separate landscapes the material's source and the urban site where the material ended up together exploring themes of unequal ecological exchange labor and material flows Each chapter follows a single material's movement guano from Peru that landed in Central Park in the 1860s granite from Maine that paved Broadway in the 1890s structural steel from Pittsburgh that restructured Riverside Park in the 1930s London plane street trees grown on Rikers Island by incarcerated workers that were planted on Seventh Avenue north of Central Park in the 1950s and the popular tropical hardwood ipe from northern Brazil installed in the High Line in the 2000s Reciprocal Landscapes Stories of Material

Movements considers the social political and ecological entanglements of material practice challenging readers to think of materials not as inert products but as continuous with land and the people that shape them and to reimagine forms of construction in solidarity with people other species and landscapes elsewhere Design Book Review ,1996
