The Unknown Wrestler (Classic Reprint) H. A. Cody, 2017-09-18 Excerpt from The Unknown Wrestler Here was no room for him on the sidewalk so he took up his position beyond the curbstone The light from the large arc lamp overhead exposed the old man s thin white hair withered face and threadbare clothes His sightless eyes were turned toward the passing throng and his head was slightly bent in an expectant attitude But the hand that drew the wheezy bow across the strings of the violin often faltered and the broken music instead of attracting repelled the crowds The player was tired and longed for rest But the fire of an overmastering purpose burned in his soul and kept him steadfast to his post The girl standing by his side was both weary and embarrassed Her hand trembled as She held out her father s soft felt hat to receive the coins which were so very few It was quite evident that she was new to this business for her cheeks were ushered crimson owing to the remarks She occasionally heard Listen to that old man sawing wood one gaily dressed young fop laughingly jested to his companion About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The Unknown Wrestler, by H.A. Cody Hiram Alfred Cody, The Unknown Wrestler H a Cody, 2021-04-07 Book Excerpt he front of the harbour It was a narrow street dimly lighted with huge warehouses on both sides There was little traffic now as this was a winter port and the big ocean liners did not come here during the summer months It was not a desirable locality especially at night and most people shunned the place The few Douglas met were either hurrying to get away as soon as possible or slinking slowly along preferring this gloomy abode to the brightly lighted parts of the city The street at length became wider where the docks ran out into the harbour At several of these small steamers were lying and a number of sailing craft Here men were busy loading and unloading the vessels Douglas did not stop to watch them as at other times but kept steadily on until he reached the last dock which was entirely deserted One electric light shed its beams out over the water which was kept burning as a guide to incoming boats Down this dock he walked and when he came close to the water he stood for a while Read More
