The Unspeakable Art Of Bill Viola A Visual Theology:

The Unspeakable Art of Bill Viola Ronald R. Bernier, 2014-05-19 The breach of art from religion is just one of the many unhappy legacies of modernism There was a time however when the aesthetic and the spiritual were of a piece This study of the work of American video artist Bill Viola considers the possible reemergence of a theological dimension to contemporary art a reenchantment of art as some have called it Using the high tech apparatus of modern video Viola s art is rooted precisely in this theological tradition of transcendent mystical experience and spiritual self concentration The technological apotheosis of modern image making high speed film high definition video LCD and plasma screens and sophisticated sound recording are put to use by Viola in ways that significantly challenge prevailing intellectual and artistic traditions and return us to the power of the Sublime that which by definition defeats language Viola s art as such converges with postmodern notions of the unrepresentable and with the ancient theological tradition of apophysis speaking away or unsaying The fullness of meaning then appears only as a promise of presence through embodied absence neither fully here and now nor entirely elsewhere and beyond This study seeks to define through the work of a courageous and thoughtful contemporary artist the theological sublime as an aesthetic of revelation

Postdigital Theologies Maggi Savin-Baden, John Reader, 2022-09-01 This book is about the relationships between technologies and the content of religious belief and practice A number of models are now starting to emerge but each of these depends on the theological or philosophical framework within which the debate is set At the same time there are dilemmas operating at different ends of the spectrum For example at one end there is a tendency towards subsuming the digital within the divine and at the other an instrumental stance relating to how technology is deployed Either of these stances could be said to ignore rather than acknowledge that the human itself is being changed as a result of the interactions with the digital The book explores the following areas Where is God to be found or present in the postdigital condition What are the implications of the postdigital condition for spirituality and indeed for the activity of God through the Holy Spirit How do concepts of transhumanism or posthumanism effect understandings of the incarnation Does the doctrine of the Trinity need revisiting in the light of the digital as medium of relationship Does Creation now include the analyses of onscreen movement in narrative and experimental films with concepts from Maurice Merleau Ponty Henri Bergson and Immanuel Kant Schonig rethinks longstanding assumptions within film studies such as indexical accounts of photographic images and analogies between the camera and the human eye Arguing against the intuition that cinema reproduces our natural perception of motion The Shape of Motion shows how cinema's motion forms do not merely transpose the movements of the world in front of the camera they transform them

Culture as Capital Slavko Kacunko, 2015-03-02 By following and reproducing the cultural turn the rhetoric of cultural mix and hybridism is disseminated today primarily in its crossing of trade barriers Cultures reduced to their exchange value function as capital an accumulative speculative and ultimately financial affair In some of its media and site un specific manifestations process art which aims to encompass both old and new media art seems to resist this pressure despite nonetheless not being protected from regulations and incorporations In the present collection of his recent essays Slavko Kacunko discusses the process art by crossing the disciplines of art history and comparative media visual and cultural studies As a first approximation several historiographical remarks on closed circuit video installations underline their importance as a core category of process art In the second part the problems of process art seen as a threshold of art history are further examined in another retroanalytical step in which concepts and objects related to mirror frame and immediacy are analyzed as the triple delimitation of visual culture studies In the third part previously outlined manifestations of what is termed the post visual condition are summarized and projected to the coreless core of the emerging art and research related to the coreless beings par excellence the bacteria

Visual Theology Robin Margaret Jensen,Kimberly J. Vrudny,2009 At least since the time of Paul see Acts 18 Christians have wrestled with the power and danger of religious imagery in the visual arts It was not until the middle of the twentieth century that there emerged in Western Christianity an integrated academic study of theology and the arts Here one of the pioneers of that movement H Wilson Yates along with fourteen theologians examine how visual culture reflects or addresses pressing contemporary religious questions The aim throughout is to engage the reader in theological reflection mediated and enhanced by the arts This beautifully illustrated book includes more than fifty images in full color

Transforming Christian Thought in the Visual Arts Sheona Beaumont,Madeleine Emerald Thiele,2021-07-06 This volume explores how the visual arts are presenting and responding to Christian theology and demonstrates how modern and contemporary artists and artworks have actively engaged in conversation with Christianity Modern intellectual enquiry has often been reluctant to engage theology as an enriching or useful form of visual analysis but critics are increasingly revisiting religious narratives and Christian thought in pursuit of understanding our present day visual culture In this book an international group of contributors demonstrate how theology is often implicit within artworks and how regardless of a viewer s personal faith it can become implicit in a viewer s visual encounter Their observations include deliberate juxtaposition of Christian symbols imaginative play with theologies the validation of non confessional or secular public engagement and inversions of biblical interpretation Case studies such as an interactive Easter glow sticks as sacrament and visualisation of the Bible s polyphonic voices enrich this discussion Together they call for a greater interpretative generosity and more nuance around theology s cultural contexts in the modern era By engaging with theology culture and the visual art this collection offers a fresh lens through which to see the interaction of
