The Turkic Languages Lars Johanson,Éva Á. Csató,2021-12-27 The Turkic languages are spoken today in a vast geographical area stretching from southern Iran to the Arctic Ocean and from the Balkans to the great wall of China There are currently 20 literary languages in the group the most important among them being Turkish with over 70 million speakers other major languages covered include Azeri Bashkir Chuvash Gagauz Karakalpak Kazakh Kirghiz Noghay Tatar Turkmen Uyghur Uzbek Yakut Yellow Uyghur and languages of Iran and South Siberia The Turkic Languages is a reference book which brings together detailed discussions of the historical development and specialized linguistic structures and features of the languages in the Turkic family Seen from a linguistic typology point of view Turkic languages are particularly interesting because of their astonishing morphosyntactic regularity their vast geographical distribution and their great stability over time This volume builds upon a work which has already become a defining classic of Turkic language study The present thoroughly revised edition updates and augments those authoritative accounts and reflects recent and ongoing developments in the languages themselves as well as our further enhanced understanding of the relations and patterns of influence between them The result is the fruit of decades long experience in the teaching of the Turkic languages their philology and literature and also of a wealth of new insights into the linguistic phenomena and cultural interactions defining their development and use both historically and in the present day Each chapter combines modern linguistic analysis with traditional historical linguistics a uniform structure allows for easy typological comparison between the individual languages Written by an international team of experts The Turkic Languages will be invaluable to students and researchers within linguistics Turcology and Near Eastern and Oriental Studies

The Languages and Linguistics of Northern Asia Edward Vajda,2024-03-04 The Languages and Linguistics of Northern Asia A Comprehensive Guide surveys the indigenous languages of Asia s North Pacific Rim Siberia and adjacent portions of Inner Eurasia It provides in depth descriptions of every first order family of this vast area with special emphasis on family internal subdivision and dialectal differentiation Individual chapters trace the origins and expansion of the region s widespread pastoral based language groups as well as the microfamilies and isolates spoken by northern Asia s surviving hunter gatherers Separate chapters cover sparsely recorded languages of early Inner Eurasia that defy precise classification and the various pidgins and creoles spread over the region Other chapters investigate the typology of salient linguistic features of the area including vowel harmony noun inflection verb indexing also known as agreement complex morphologies and the syntax of complex predicates Issues relating to genealogical ancestry areal contact and language endangerment receive equal attention With historical connections both to Eurasia's pastoral based empires as well as to ancient population movements into the Americas the steppes taiga forests tundra and coastal fringes of northern Asia offer a complex and fascinating object of linguistic investigation

Handbook of Descriptive Linguistic Fieldwork Shobhana L. Chelliah, Willem J. de Reuse, 2010-10-06 The Handbook of Descriptive Linguistic Fieldwork is the most comprehensive reference on linguistic fieldwork on the market bringing together all the reader needs to carry out successful linguistic fieldwork Based on the experiences of two veteran linguistic fieldworkers and advice from more than a twenty active fieldwork researchers this handbook provides an encyclopedic review of current publications on linguistic fieldwork and surveys past and present approaches and solutions to problems in the field and the historical political and social variables correlating with fieldwork in different areas of the world The discussion of the ethical dimensions of fieldwork as well as what constitutes the typical linguistic fieldwork setting or consultant is explored from multiple perspectives relevant to fieldwork on every continent Included is information omitted in most other texts on the subject such as the collection representation management and methods of extracting grammatical information from discourse and conversational data as well as the relationship between questionnaire based elicitation text based elicitation and philology and the need for combinations of these methods The book is useful before during and after linguistic field trips since it provides extensive practical macro and micro organization and planning fieldwork tips as well as a handy sketch of major typological features for use in linguistic analysis Comprehensive references are provided at the end of each chapter as resources relevant to the reader's particular interests

The Tungusic Languages Alexander Vovin, José Andrés Alonso de la Fuente, Juha Janhunen, 2023-08-31 The Tungusic Languages is a survey of Tungusic a language family which is seriously endangered today but which at the time of its maximum spread was present all over Northeast Asia This volume offers a systematic succession of separate chapters on all the individual Tungusic languages as well as a number of additional chapters containing contextual information on the language family as a whole its background and current state as well as its history of research and documentation Manchu and its mediaeval ancestor Jurchen are important historical literary languages discussed in this volume while the other Tungusic languages around a dozen altogether have always been spoken by small local though in some cases territorially widespread populations engaged in traditional subsistence activities of the Eurasian taiga and steppe zones and the North Pacific coast All contributors to this volume are well known specialists on their specific topics and importantly all the authors of the chapters dealing with modern languages have personal experience of linguistic field work among Tungusic speakers This volume will be informative for scholars and students specialising in the languages and peoples of Northeast Asia and will also be of interest to those engaged with linguistic typology cultural anthropology and ethnic history who wish to obtain information on the Tungusic languages A typology of questions in Northeast Asia and beyond Andreas Hölzl,2018-08-29 This study investigates the distribution of linguistic and specifically structural diversity in Northeast Asia NEA defined as the region north of the Yellow River and east of the Yenisei In particular it analyzes what is called the grammar of questions GQ i e those aspects of any given language that are specialized for asking questions or regularly combine with these The bulk of the study is a bottom up description and comparison of GQs in the languages of NEA The addition of the phrase and beyond to the title of this study serves two purposes First languages such as Turkish and Chuvash are included despite the fact that they are spoken outside of NEA since they have ties to or even originated in the region Second despite its focus on one area the typology is intended to be applicable to other languages as well Therefore it makes extensive use of data from languages outside of NEA The restriction to one category is necessary for reasons of space and clarity and the process of zooming in on one region allows a higher resolution and historical accuracy than is usually the case in linguistic typology The discussion mentions over 450 languages and dialects from NEA and beyond and gives about 900 glossed examples The aim is to achieve both a cross linguistically plausible typology and a maximal resolution of the linguistic diversity of Northeast Asia Code Copying Lars Johanson,2023-07-03 This book presents Lars Johanson s Code Copying Model an integrated framework for the description of contact induced processes The model covers all the main contact linguistic issues in their synchronic and diachronic interrelationship The terminology is kept intuitive and simple to apply Illustrative examples from a wide range of languages demonstrate the model s applicability to both spoken and written codes The fundamental difference between take over copying and carry over copying is given special value Speakers can take over copies from a secondary code into their own primary code or alternatively carry over copies from their own primary code into their variety of a secondary code The results of these two types of copying are significantly different and thus provide insights into historical processes

Magazines and Modern Identities Tim Satterthwaite,Andrew Thacker,2023-09-21 In the late nineteenth and early twentieth century ideals of technological progress and mass consumerism shaped the print cultures of countries across the globe Magazines in Europe the USA Latin America and Asia inflected a shared internationalism and technological optimism But there were equally powerful countervailing influences of patriotic or insurgent nationalism and of traditionalism that promoted cultural differentiation In their editorials images and advertisements magazines embodied the tensions between these domestic imperatives and the forces of global modernity Magazines and Modern Identities explores how these tensions played out in the magazine cultures of ten different countries describing how publications drew on resisted and informed the ideals and visual forms of global modernism Chapters take in the magazines of Australia Europe and North America as well as China The Soviet Turkic states and Mexico With contributions from leading international scholars the book considers the pioneering developments in European and North American periodicals in the modernist period whilst expanding the field of enquiry to take in the vibrant magazine cultures of east Asia and Latin America The construction of these magazines modern ideals was a complex dialectical process in dialogue with international modernism but equally responsive to their local cultures and the beliefs and expectations of their readers Magazines and Modern Identities captures the diversity of these ideals in periodicals that both embraced and criticised the globalised culture of the technological era Adjective attribution Michael Rießler, 2016-07-15 This book is the first typological study of adjective attribution marking Its focus lies on Northern Eurasia although it covers many more languages and presents an ontology of morphosyntactic categories relevant to noun phrase structure in general Beside treating synchronic data the study contributes to historical linguistics by reconstructing the origin of new types specifically in the language contact area between the Indo European and Uralic families

Information-theoretic causal inference of lexical flow Johannes Dellert, 2019 This volume seeks to infer large phylogenetic networks from phonetically encoded lexical data and contribute in this way to the historical study of language varieties The technical step that enables progress in this case is the use of causal inference algorithms Sample sets of words from language varieties are preprocessed into automatically inferred cognate sets and then modeled as information theoretic variables based on an intuitive measure of cognate overlap Causal inference is then applied to these variables in order to determine the existence and direction of influence among the varieties The directed arcs in the resulting graph structures can be interpreted as reflecting the existence and directionality of lexical flow a unified model which subsumes inheritance and borrowing as the two main ways of transmission that shape the basic lexicon of languages A flow based separation criterion and domain specific directionality detection criteria are developed to make existing causal inference algorithms more robust against imperfect cognacy data giving rise to two new algorithms The Phylogenetic Lexical Flow Inference PLFI algorithm requires lexical features of proto languages to be reconstructed in advance but yields fully general phylogenetic networks whereas the more complex Contact Lexical Flow Inference CLFI algorithm treats proto languages as hidden common causes and only returns hypotheses of historical contact situations between attested languages The algorithms are evaluated both against a large lexical database of Northern Eurasia spanning many language families and against simulated data generated by a new model of language contact that builds on the opening and closing of directional contact channels as primary evolutionary events The algorithms are found to infer the existence of contacts very reliably whereas the inference of directionality remains difficult This currently limits the new algorithms to a role as exploratory tools for quickly detecting salient patterns in large lexical datasets but it should soon be possible for the framework to be enhanced e g by confidence values for each directionality decision

Rarities in phonetics and phonology Natalia Kuznetsova, Cormac Anderson, Shelece Easterday, 2025-05-20 Rare phenomena play a key role in forming and challenging linguistic theory This volume presents multi faceted analyses of rarities in phonetics and phonology from a wide variety of theoretical standpoints Some contributions to the volume analyse language specific rare features placing them in a broader cross linguistic context and looking at a sum of their phonological phonetic and evolutionary properties at times also making connections to sociolinguistic factors Others consider the same or similar phenomena from different analytical angles with extensive cross referencing or take a broad analytical or typological stance towards rare phenomena and discuss what it means to be rare The volume provides a nuanced picture of phonetic and phonological rarities in genealogically diverse languages mostly lesser studied from around the globe Authors were encouraged to attempt to strike a middle ground between radical exoticisation of the rarities at hand describing them in idiosyncratic terms and radical normalisation underplaying the rarity of the phenomena at hand Highly theory specific or technical terminology is avoided or explained carefully in order to make the book maximally accessible for a wide typologically minded audience The World's Major Languages Bernard

Paradigm Change Martine Robbeets,Walter Bisang,2014-10-15 This book is concerned with comparing morphological paradigms between languages in order to establish areal and genealogical relationships The languages in focus are the Transeurasian languages Japanese Korean Tungusic Mongolic and Turkic languages World eminent experts in diachronic morphology and typology interact with specialists on Transeurasian languages presenting innovative theoretical analyses and new empirical facts The stress on the importance of paradigmatic morphology in historical linguistics contrasts sharply with the paucity of existing literature on the topic This volume partially fills this gap by shifting focus from Indo European to other language families Paradigm change will appeal to scholars and advanced students concerned with linguistic reconstruction language contact morphology and typology and to anyone interested in the Transeurasian languages On the Physiology of Voice Production in South-Siberian Throat Singing Sven

Grawunder,2009-03-03 This book presents the first field work based phonetic study focussing such extraordinary phonatory outcomes as occur in the context of South Siberian throat singing In throat singing specific voice production types serve as source which are subject to various ways of formant shaping merging adjustment and reinforcement all of which function to enhance individual harmonics Two main types are proposed for voice production in South Siberian throat singing a voice production by means of the vocal folds featuring a constriction of the aryepiglottic sphincter and a voice production with involvement of the ventricular folds Furthermore a simple schematic model for the articulation types in throat singing is suggested One of the basic questions throughout this study is whether the phenomenon of throat singing shows fairly clear regional variants in different parts of southern Central Siberia or whether the variation is chiefly a matter of individual styles
