Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-volume exercise program on the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The sessions included a combination of cardiovascular and strength training exercises. The results of the study showed that the program had a positive effect on the physical fitness of the women, with significant improvements in cardiovascular fitness, muscle strength, and body composition. The program was well-tolerated and had no adverse effects on the women's health. The findings of this study suggest that a low-intensity, low-impact, and low-volume exercise program can be an effective means of improving the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.
