Thrust The Remarkable Story Of One Mans Quest For Speed:

Thrust: The Remarkable Story of One Man's Quest for Speed Richard Noble, 1998-10 Thrust Rare Books Cataloguer
John Hay Library Richard Noble, Richard Noble, 2012-05 They said it couldn't be done Sceptics warned that as a car approached 750 mph the shock waves generated when it hit the sound barrier would either force it off the ground like an aeroplane or tear it apart Richard Noble the modern embodiment of the swashbuckling British speed seeker of yesteryear was used to that kind of blinkered thinking He had held the title of The Fastest Man on Earth since 1983 when his Thrust 2 car set a new world land speed record at 633 mph Critics had argued that he would fail then too Noble liked nothing better than a fight In the late 1990s as a gripping Anglo American race began to create the world's first supersonic car he was determined to achieve this world first for Britain On 15 October 1997 Noble's Thrust SSC driven by ice cool RAF Squadron Leader Andy Green smashed through the sound barrier to create the first supersonic land speed record at 763 mph The Thrust SSC team had beaten the Americans thumbed its nose at the sceptics and realized what seemed an impossible dream It was a triumph for British engineering technology and derring do his is Richard Noble's story of his obsession with speed from his early days with the Donald Campbell David Tremayne, 2011-09-30 Generations are familiar with the haunting black and white television footage of Donald Campbell somersaulting to his death in his famous Bluebird boat on Coniston Water in January 1967 It has become an iconic image of the decade His towering achievements and the drama of his passing are thus part of the national psyche But what of the man himself The son of the legendary Sir Malcolm Campbell who was famous for being the ultimate record breaker of the inter war years he broke the land speed record nine times and the water speed record four times with his Bluebird cars and boats Donald Campbell was born to speed He was outgoing and flamboyant yet carefully orchestrated the image he presented to the world Some saw him as a playboy adventurer others such as the radio producer on the twenty first anniversary of his death as a reckless daredevil with a death wish He was known to take solace in extra marital dalliances and was obsessed with spiritualism And in his final years battered by a 360 mph accident while attempting the land record on the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah and his prolonged and anti climactic subsequent effort on the treacherous Lake Eyre in Australia Campbell appeared a haggard and often frightened man He had become trapped on his record breaker's treadmill as he continually sought to prove himself to his illustrious father in whose long shadow he felt forever trapped DONALD CAMPBELL THE MAN BEHIND THE MASK paints a fascinating portrait of an intense complex superstitious yet abnormally brave man who was driven not only by the desire to prove that he was worthy of the mantle of his father but also by his fervent and unswerving desire to keep Britain at the forefront of international speed endeavour This book generates a unique insight into how his desperate fear of failure finally lured him into taking one risk too many The Information Society Robert Hassan, 2013-04-25 What are we to make of the information society Many prominent theorists have argued it to be the most profound and comprehensive transformation of economy culture and politics since the rise of the industrial way of life in the 18th century Some saw its arrival in a positive light where the dreams of democracy of connectivity and efficiency constituted a break with the old ways But other thinkers viewed it more in terms of the recurrent nightmare of capitalism where the processes of exploitation commodification and alienation are given much freer rein than ever before In this book Robert Hassan a prominent theorist in new media and its effects analyses and critically appraises these positions and forms them into a coherent narrative to illuminate the phenomenon Surveying the works of major information society theorists from Daniel Bell to Nicholas Negroponte and from Vincent Mosco to Manuel Castells The Information Society is an invaluable resource for understanding the nature of the information society as well as the meta processes of neoliberal globalisation and the revolution in information technologies that made it possible
