Transnational Connections Ulf Hannerz, 1996 Hannerz argues that in an ever more interconnected world national understandings of culture have become insufficient He not only engages with theoretical debates about culture and globalisation but raises issues of how we think and live today

Transnational Connections Ulf Hannerz, 2002-01-04 This work provides an account of culture in an age of globalization Ulf Hannerz argues that in an ever more interconnected world national understandings of culture have become insufficient He explores the implications of boundary crossings and long distance cultural flows for established notions of the local community nation and modernity Hannerz not only engages with theoretical debates about culture and globalization but raises issues of how we think and live today His account of the experience of global culture encompasses a shouting match in a New York street about Salman Rushdie a papal visit to the Maya Indians kung fu dancers in Nigeria and Rastafarians in Amsterdam the nostalgia of foreign correspondents and the surprising experiences of tourists in a world city or on a Borneo photo safari

The autonomous life? Nazima Kadir, 2016-06-07 The Autonomous Life is an ethnography of the squatters movement in Amsterdam written by an anthropologist who lived and worked in a squatters community for over three years During that time she resided as a squatter in four different houses worked on two successful anti gentrification campaigns was evicted from two houses and jailed once With this unique perspective Kadir systematically examines the contradiction between what people say and what they practice in a highly ideological radical left community The squatters movement defines itself primarily as anti hierarchical and anti authoritarian and yet is perpetually plagued by the contradiction between this public disavowal and the maintenance of hierarchy and authority within the movement This study analyses how this contradiction is then reproduced in different micro social interactions examining the methods by which people negotiate minute details of their daily lives as squatter activists in the face of a fun house mirror of ideological expectations reflecting values from within the squatter community that in turn often refract mainstream middle class norms Using a unique critical perspective informed by gender and subaltern studies this study contributes to social movements literature through a meticulous analysis of the production of power and hierarchy in a social movement subculture An electronic edition of this book is freely available under a Creative Commons CC BY NC SA licence

Sport, Culture and Advertising Steven J. Jackson,David L. Andrews,2004-11-10 Despite the range of theoretical and methodological positions adopted and the wide range of issues and topics related to advertising covered by cultural studies relationships between sport and advertising have been largely overlooked Given its global popularity and its prevalence across the spectrum of cultural and commercial life it is not surprising that scholars interrogating the cultural politics of sport have begun to recognise advertising as an important site for the analysis of power relations cultural politics and cultural representation Sport Culture and Advertising presents a first step towards understanding the relationship between advertising and identity with a focus on sport The book will be useful for scholars across a range of disciplines and will be of interest to students looking for a more critical examination of the commercial realm of sport
