The Creative South Andrea Aciri, Peter Sharrock, 2022-04-12 This edited volume programmatically reconsiders the creative contribution of the littoral and insular regions of Maritime Asia to shaping new paradigms in the Buddhist and Hindu art and architecture of the mediaeval Asian world Far from being a mere southern conduit for the maritime circulation of Indic religions in the period from ca the 7th to the 14th century those regions transformed across mainland and island polities the rituals icons and architecture that embodied these religious insights with a dynamism that often eclipsed the established cultural centres in Northern India Central Asia and mainland China This collective body of work brings together new research aiming to recalibrate the importance of these innovations in art and architecture thereby highlighting the cultural creativity of the monsoon influenced Southern rim of the Asian landmass Although Maritime Asia in mediaeval times was not as densely populated as the agrarian hinterland Asia's coasts were highly urbanized The region from southern India to south China was a heterogeneous blend of cultures leavened with a strong interest in trade This cosmopolitan society afforded plentiful opportunities for artists to find patrons and develop individual styles and aesthetic sensibilities In the bustling ports of Asia's south coast rulers sought to embellish their prestige and attract foreign merchants by sponsoring the development of monumental complexes and centres of learning and debate These educational institutions attracted teachers from all over Asia and in their cloisters they developed new intellectual frameworks which were reflected in works of art and architecture Scholars moved frequently by sea influencing and being influenced by other foreigners such as Japanese and central Asians who were also attracted to these places This very variety has hindered scholarly research in the past This volume contributes to the endeavour to show how Maritime Asia was not an incoherent jumble of misunderstood influences from better known civilizations there was a pattern to this creativity which the authors in this collection clarify for us The maritime world of Asia may have lain on the margins of the land but it provided a physical and intellectual medium through which artistic ideas from east and west flowed freely Maritime Asia also made significant original contributions which hold their own with those of the hinterland of the Asian continent Unconstrained by the burden of static hierarchical courts the peoples of Maritime Asia built on the inspiration provided by a hybrid society to demonstrate a high degree of artistic originality while testing but not breaking the link with conventional iconography Professor John Miksic Department of Southeast Asian Studies Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences National University of Singapore NUS The collective objective of this two volume work is to give substance to the oft cited mantra that mediaeval maritime Southeast Asia was as much an innovative contributor to as a recipient in the cultural conversations that took place across the Bay of Bengal and South China Sea In bracketing these studies between the 7th and 14th centuries the editors have drawn into focus two key traditions that are explicated in texts ritual art and architecture and religious landscapes of this period tantric Buddhism and esoteric Shaivism A great strength of these studies is this focus for which the editors are to be commended The chapters contain much that represents significant milestones in building new understanding in the field including overdue recognition of the importance of Southeast Asian esoteric Buddhist practice in shaping Chinese Buddhism Nowhere did the architects of the religious landscape of early Southeast Asia think of themselves as being on the periphery or as outsiders looking in Rather they knowingly imbued their tirthas and sacred centres with the same authority as those in India and created religious edifices that were on occasions beyond India s experience I highly commend this publication to anyone with an interest in bringing a wider lens to the study of Indian esoteric religious practices and to understanding the relationship of early Hindu Buddhist Southeast Asia to the wider Asian world John Guy Senior Curator of South and Southeast Asian Art The Metropolitan Museum of Art New York The Creative South is a rich compendium of scholarship concerning the religious art of Southeast Asia and its ties to India in the period beginning in the 8th century It was a time when merchants were crisscrossing the seas from India to China and when advocates of innovative doctrines and rituals were finding ready support among the rulers of the varied kingdoms From the identification of images embraced by the seafarers to the mysteries of the fire shrines in Cambodian temples from the funerary beliefs of Odisha to the unique character of the Javanese Ramayana these eighteen studies provide fresh understandings of the patterns of reception and innovation Hiram Woodward Mr and Mrs Thomas Quincy Scott Curator of Asian Art Emeritus The Walters Art Museum The Ramayana and the Mahabharata Condensed Into English Verse Romesh Chunder Dutt, 2002-01-01 Originally published London J M Dent Sons 1910 Compounds and Compounding in Old Tibetan. Vol. 1 Joanna Bialek, 2018-08-26 Old Tibetan documents are the oldest extant monuments of the Tibetan language Their exploration although successfully flourishing in the last two decades has been considerably impeded by often unintelligible and obsolete vocabulary that was bound to the particular cultural and political context of the Tibetan Empire that collapsed in the 840s CE The present publication aims at clarifying a part of this vocabulary by examining nearly 400 Old Tibetan compounds In Part I an attempt has been undertaken to define a compound and to provide the first linguistic classification of Old Tibetan compounds Part II concentrates on a lexicological analysis of the compounds and strives to explain their etymology word formation and usage in Old Tibetan Contents of Volume 1 Introduction Indices References Part I Compounding in Old Tibetan Part II Old Tibetan Compounds Lexicological Analysis Lexemes 1 119

The Archaeology of Tibetan Books Agnieszka Helman-Ważny, 2014-07-03 In Archaeology of Tibetan Books Agnieszka Helman-Ważny explores the varieties of artistic expression materials and tools that have shaped Tibetan books over the millennia Digging into the history of the bookmaking craft the author approaches these ancient texts primarily through the lens of their artistry while simultaneously showing them as physical objects embedded in pragmatic economic and social frameworks She provides analyses of several significant Tibetan books which usually carry Buddhist teachings including a selection of manuscripts from Dunhuang from the 1st millennium CE examples of illuminated manuscripts from Western and Central Tibet dating from the 15th century and fragments of printed Tibetan Kanjurs from as early as 1410 This detailed study of bookmaking sheds new light on the books philosophical meanings

Photography and Tibet Clare Harris, 2016-11-15 Magnificent and mysterious Tibet has been a source of fascination for outsiders for centuries and its grand landscapes and vibrant culture have especially captivated photographers But the country is both geographically and politically challenging and access from the outside has never been easy With this book Clare Harris offers the first historical survey of photography in Tibet and the Himalayas telling the intriguing stories of both Tibetans and foreigners who have attempted to document the region's wonders on film Harris combines extensive research in museums and archives with her own fieldwork in Tibetan communities to present materials that have never been examined before including the earliest known photograph taken in Tibet dating to 1863 She looks at the experimental camera work of Tibetan monks including the thirteenth Dalai Lama and the creations of contemporary Tibetan photographers and artists With every image she explores the complex religious political and cultural climate in which it was produced Stunningly illustrated this book will appeal to anyone interested in the dramatic history of Tibet since the mid nineteenth century and its unique entanglements with aesthetics and modernity
