The Palgrave Handbook of Transformational Giftedness for Education Robert J Sternberg, Don Ambrose, Sareh Karami, 2022-04-23 This handbook examines what education would look like if it prepared gifted students to transform the world to make it a better place for all not just for those who receive extra resources from schools in return for being labeled as gifted The editors explore how transformationally gifted people can seek to make the world a better and more just place they try to make a positive meaningful and possibly enduring contribution to changing things in the world that are not working They do not view giftedness merely as a transaction whereby in exchange for being labeled as gifted they accrue benefits to themselves such as a more prestigious education more income or residence in a more exclusive community The overarching aim of this book is to present conceptions of what identification and instruction of the gifted would look like if the focus of gifted education was transformational rather than transactional What if gifted education did not focus so much on acceleration vs enrichment or pull out versus in class integration but rather on how to be gifted in giving back in using one's gifts to create a better world

The More of Myth Mary Aswell Doll, 2011-11-19 This book uses a nine year experience of teaching world mythology to art students in order to discuss why and how such ancient stories provide significance today Myth's weird images and metaphors recall Wyrd Word the goddess of the cauldron Students can be guided into the cauldron of mythic language to feel the stirring of new awareness of what it really means to be human Psychologically myth offers insights into family relations memory imagination and otherness Ecological insights from myth teach the connection among human animal plant relations and the organicism of all life forms Cosmological insights from myth surprisingly echo findings in new science with its emphasis on quantum mechanics force fields black holes subatomic particles chaos and the possibilities of time travel Two areas often considered completely opposite myth and science actually reflect one another since both propose theories albeit in different ways Myth cannot be laughed away as mere fabula since like science and psychology it has long explored adventures into unseen unknown worlds that yield necessary knowledge about the place of humans in the scheme of things big and small The more of myth will be of interest to teachers and students of curriculum studies to those seeking to go beyond Oedipus and Gutenberg and to readers who know that all forms of life including fingernails and rocks are wondrous diverse alive capable purposive and necessary

Postformal Education Jennifer M. Gidley, 2016-08-05 This book explains why the current education model which was developed in the 19th century to meet the needs of industrial expansion is obsolete It points to the need for a new approach to education designed to prepare young people for global uncertainty accelerating change and unprecedented complexity The book offers a new educational philosophy to awaken the creative big picture and long term thinking that will help equip students to face tomorrow's challenges Inside readers will find a dialogue between adult developmental psychology research on higher stages of reasoning and today's most evolved education research and practice This dialogue reveals surprising links between play and wisdom imagination and ecology holism and love The overwhelming issues of global climate crisis growing economic disparity and the youth mental health epidemic reveal how dramatically the current education model has failed students and educators This book raises a planet wide call to deeply question how we actually think and how we must educate It articulates a postformal education philosophy as a foundation for educational futures The book will appeal to educators educational philosophers pre service teacher educators educational and developmental psychologists and educational researchers including postgraduates with an interest in transformational educational theories designed for the complexity of the 21st century This is the most compelling book on education I have read for many years It has major implications for all who are in a position to influence developments in teacher education and educational policy Gidley is one of the very rare scholars who can write intelligently and accessibly about the past present and future in education I was challenged and ultimately convinced by her contention that what masquerades as education today must be seen for what it is an anachronistic relic of the industrial past Gidley's challenge is to co evolve a radically new education All who seek to play a part must read this book Brian J Caldwell PhD Educational Transformations former Dean of Education at the University of Melbourne and Deputy Chair Australian Curriculum Assessment and Reporting Authority ACARA

Mourning the Dream--Amor Fati Susanna Ruebsaat,2018-12-13 The inner figure of the blind victim the one who has the power to withstand the dark pull of the archetypal dynamic of illness wholeness was particularly active for a long period of time after I initially lost my eyesight She kept looking for what I could not see checking each eye over and over again separately crying out in despair to the other eye to see if it could not grasp what this one could not As a metaphor pointing to something not seen shadow material not identified with the soul of my blindness kept reaching out past her claustrophobic confinement to the blackness pressing in on her She was relentless in her efforts to stay connected to the not me that might help her learn how to see in another less literal way I reflect now on how seeing and my sense of self became symbiotic in that what I could see I felt was still a part of me I could still be whole I still had a relationship with these parts of my experience And what I could not see was not lost to me forever vanished as if my very sense of myself was suddenly unavailable absent Dead
