Shaping Summertime Experiences National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Board on Children, Youth, and Families,Committee on Summertime Experiences and Child and Adolescent Education, Health, and Safety,2020-01-30 For children and youth summertime presents a unique break from the traditional structure resources and support systems that exist during the school year For some students this time involves opportunities to engage in fun and enriching activities and programs while others face additional challenges as they lose a variety of supports including healthy meals medical care supervision and structured programs that enhance development Children that are limited by their social economic or physical environments during the summer months are at higher risk for worse academic health social and emotional and safety outcomes In contrast structured summertime activities and programs support basic developmental needs and positive outcomes for children and youth who can access and afford these programs These discrepancies in summertime experiences exacerbate pre existing academic inequities While further research is needed regarding the impact of summertime on developmental domains outside of the academic setting extensive literature exists regarding the impact of summertime on academic development trajectories However this knowledge is not sufficiently applied to policy and practice and it is important to address these inequalities

Shaping Summertime Experiences examines the impact of summertime experiences on the developmental trajectories of school age children and youth across four areas of well being including academic learning social and emotional development physical and mental health and health promoting and safety behaviors It also reviews the state of science and available literature regarding the impact of summertime experiences In addition this report provides recommendations to improve the experiences of children over the summertime regarding planning access and equity and opportunities for further research and data collection

Vibrant and Healthy Kids National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on Applying Neurobiological and Socio-Behavioral Sciences from Prenatal Through Early Childhood Development: A Health Equity Approach, 2019-11-27 Children are the foundation of the United States and supporting them is a key component of building a successful future However millions of children face health inequities that compromise their development well being and long term outcomes despite substantial scientific evidence about how those adversities contribute to poor health Advancements in neurobiological and socio behavioral science show that critical biological systems develop in the prenatal through early childhood periods and neurobiological development is extremely responsive to environmental influences during these stages. Consequently, social, economic, cultural, and environmental factors significantly affect a child's health ecosystem and ability to thrive throughout adulthood. Vibrant and Healthy Kids: Aligning Science, Practice, and Policy to Advance Health Equity builds upon and updates research from Communities in Action: Pathways to Health Equity (2017) and From Neurons to Neighborhoods: The Science of Early Childhood Development (2000). This report provides a brief overview of stressors that affect childhood development and health, a framework for applying current brain and development science to the real world, a roadmap for implementing tailored interventions, and recommendations about improving systems to better align with our understanding of the significant impact of health equity.

Early Childhood Policies and Systems in Eight Countries Tony Bertram, Chris Pascal, 2016-07-29. This report provides an overview of policy strategies on early childhood education settings from birth to primary schooling in eight countries: Data were collected using a policy questionnaire addressed to and completed by the National Research Coordinator's (NRC) of Chile, the Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Italy, Poland, the Russian Federation, and the United States. The countries that participated provide interesting illustrations of early childhood education policy in action in a range of diverse contexts. Analysis of the systemic and structural results of ECE policy at national and where necessary subnational levels enables transnational comparisons in policy and systems. Key policy changes both underway and planned are documented. These data reveal key findings in each of the five policy areas as covered in the questionnaire and this report: public policy delivery, models and providers, participation and enrollment, quality assurance systems, and expectations for child outcomes. In particular, the study aims to provide meaningful information for countries, states, and jurisdictions across the world in relation to early childhood education, mapping the systems, structures, and user pathways in place, along with the perceptions of stakeholders about the system, its functioning, and impact. This comprehensive assessment of the wider policy contexts and settings for early childhood education includes teacher/practitioner qualifications, pedagogy, approaches, and opportunities for professional development. Such information will enable countries to review their early childhood education systems in an international context.
